HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

THE LANDS OF THIS ABOVE NAMED ASSOCIAtion are situated in San Francisco and are eligibly and most desirably located, adjoining the grounds purchased by the Presbyterian University Society, on which College buildings are to be at once erected. The site is less than thirty minutes ride from Montgomery street; lying just west or back of the lands of the South San Francisco Homestead and Railroad Association and the Bay View Park, almost within a stone's throw of

Beautiful View of the Bay,

And its opposite shore, and has a soil of extreme richness. So great are the natural attractions of the site that very many of the wealthy citizens of San Francisco have already purchased whole blocks in the same tract, and design building residences thereon.

The Rev. E. Thomas, D. D.,

Is President of the Association, Lester L Robinson formerly Vice President of the Sacramento Railroad Company, is the Treasurer, and Thomas H Lewis, formerly of Portland, Secretary.

Four lots, 25x120 feet each, constitute a share, costing $315—paid in monthly installments of $10 each after the first payment of $20 has been made.

Maps and books giving full information of the working of the Association can be obtained at the store of J. L. PARRISH & CO

PIONEER WASHER.
JAMES BRUSIE,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivaled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the cloths of clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It is easily worked by one person.

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.

The undersigned is now in the city of Portland where he can be seen at Mr O Kilbourn's Store corner of Front and Yamhill Sts., East side Portland and is prepared to furnish the Machine to purchasers and also to sell and dispose of County Rights for the sale of the same.

The Mississippi Injunction Case—Opinion of Chief Justice Chase

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In the United States Supreme Court to day the Chief Justice delivered the opinion of the court in the case of the State of Mississippi vs Andrew Johnson, President of the United States and L. O. C. Ord, on the motion for leave to file a bill, as follows

A motion was made some days since in behalf of the State of Mississippi for leave to file a bill in the name of the State, praying this court to perpetually enjoin and restrain Andrew Johnson President of the United States, and L. O. C. Ord, General commanding in the District of Mississippi and Arkansas from executing or in any manner carrying out certain Acts of Congress therein. The Acts referred to are those of March 2d and March 23d, 1867 commonly known as the Reconstruction Acts. The Attorney General objected to the leave asked for upon the grounds that no bill which makes the President a defendant and seeks an injunction against him to restrain the performance of his duties as President should be allowed to be filed in this court. This point has been fully argued and we will now dispose of it. We shall limit our inquiry to the question presented by the objection, without expressing any opinion on the broader issues discussed in argument, whether in any case the President of the United States may be required by the process of this court, to perform a purely ministerial act required by law, or may be held amenable in any case otherwise than by impeachment, for crime. The single point which requires consideration is this: Can the President be restricted from carrying into effect an Act of Congress alleged to be unconstitutional? It is assumed by the counsel for the State of Mississippi that the President, in the execution of the reconstruction acts, is required to perform a mere ministerial duty. In this assumption there is, we think a compounding of the terms "ministerial" and "executive," which are by no means equivalent in import. A ministerial duty, the performance of which may in proper cases be required of the head of a department by judicial process, is one in respect to which nothing is left to discretion. It is a simple, definite duty arising under conditions admitted or proved to exist or imposed by law. The case of Marbury vs Madison, Secretary of the Treasury, (1 Cranch, 137) furnishes an illustration. A citizen had been nominated, confirmed and appointed a justice of the peace for the District of Columbia, and his commission had been made out, signed and sealed, nothing remained to be done except delivery, and it was the duty of delivery was imposed by law on the Secretary of State. It was held that the performance of this duty might be enforced by mandamus issuing from a Court having jurisdiction. So in the case of Kendall, Postmaster General vs Stockton and Stokes (12 Peters, 527). An act of Congress had directed the Postmaster General to credit Stockton and Stokes with such sums as the Solicitor of the Treasury should find due them, and that officer refused to credit them with certain sums found due. It was held that the crediting of this money was a mere ministerial duty, the performance of which might be enforced in such of these cases. Nothing was left to discretion "there was no room for the exercise of judgment. The law required the performance of a single specific act, and that performance it was held, might be required by mandamus. Very different is the duty of the President in the exercise of the power to see that the laws are faithfully executed, and among those laws the Acts named in the bill. By the first of these Acts he is required to assign Generals to command in the several military districts, and to detail sufficient military force to enable such officers to discharge their duties under the law. By the supplementary Act other duties are imposed on the several commanding Generals, and their duties must necessarily be performed under the supervision of the President, as Commander in Chief. The duty thus imposed on the President is in no just sense ministerial, it is purely executive and political. An attempt on the part of the judicial department of the government to enjoin the performance of such duties by the President might be justly characterized, in the language of Chief Justice Marshall, as "an absurd and excessive extravagance." It is true that in the instance before us the interposition of the Court is not sought to enforce action by the Executive under constitutional legislation, but to restrain such action under legislation alleged to be unconstitutional. But we are unable to perceive that this circumstance takes the case out of the general principle forbidding judicial interference with the exercise of Executive discretion. It was admitted in the argument that the application now made to us is without a precedent, and this is of much weight against it. Had it been supposed at the bar that this Court would in any case interpose to arrest the execution of an unconstitutional Act of Congress it can hardly be doubted that applications with that object would have been heretofore addressed to it. Occasions have not been unfrequent. The constitutionality of the Act for the annexation of Texas was vehemently denied. It made important and permanent changes in the relative importance of States and sections, and was by many supposed to be pregnant with disastrous results to large interests in particular States, but no one seems to have thought of an application for an injunction against the execution of the Act by the President, and yet it is difficult to perceive upon what principle the application now before us can be allowed and similar applications in that and other cases could have been denied. The fact that no such application was ever before made in any case indicates the general judgment of the profession that no such application should be entertained. It will hardly be contended that Congress can interpose in any case to restrain the enactment of an unconstitutional law, and yet how can the right to judicial interposition to prevent such an enactment, when the purpose is evident and the execution of that purpose certain, be distinguished in principle from the right to such interposition against the execution of such a law by the President? The Congress is the legislative department of the Government. The President is the executive department. Neither can be restrained in his action by the judicial department though the acts of both when performed, are in proper cases subject to its cognizance. But the propriety of such interference will be clearly seen upon consideration of its probable consequences. Suppose the bill filed, and the injunction prayed for be allowed. If the President refuse obedience it is needless to observe that the Court is without power to enforce its process. If on the other hand, the President complies with the order of the Court, and refuses to execute the Act of Congress, is it not clear that a collision may occur between the executive and legislative departments of the Government? May not the House of Representatives impeach the President for such refusal? And in that case could the Court interpose in behalf of the President, thus endangered by compliance with its mandate, and restrain by injunction the Senate of the United States from sitting as a Court of Impeachment? Would the strange spectacle be offered to the public wonder of an attempt by this Court to arrest proceedings in that Court? These questions answer themselves. It is true that a State may file an original bill in this Court, and it may be true in some cases such a bill may be filed against the United States, but we are fully satisfied that this Court has no jurisdiction of a bill to enjoin the President in the performance of his official duties, and that no such bill ought to be received by us. It has been suggested that the bill contains a prayer that if the relief sought cannot be obtained against Andrew Johnson as President it may be granted against Andrew Johnson as a citizen of Tennessee, but it is plain that relief against the execution of an Act of Congress by Andrew Johnson is relief against its execution by the President. A bill praying an injunction against the execution of an Act of Congress by the incumbent of the Presidential office cannot be received, whether it describes him as President or simply as a citizen of a State. The motion for leave to file the bill is therefore denied.

There is a magistrate in a town in Indiana named Holzer. A clergyman in the same place was called on some time since by a young couple, who wished him to join them in the holy bonds of matrimony. He asked the bridegroom in, (door by the way) for his marriage license. The man in blue responded that he had been engaged to the girl over four years and thought that would do. The clergyman thought not and remarked as the quickest way to obtain a license—"You had better take your girl and go to Holzer." "You can go to hell yourself," retorted the angry veteran. And seizing the bride by the arm, he dragged her from the house wondering what sort of a profane minister he had met with.

The Russian Cession—Views of the English Press

[From the New York Times.]

We have now before us the London papers giving the English views of the cession of Russian America. They treat the subject with more fairness and less excitement than might have been expected after the remark concerning it in the House of Lords. In response to an inquiry in that body, the Duke of Buckingham said "The question of the cession of that portion of America to the United States is one likely to cause great feeling and possibly considerable excitement, but I trust it will not be allowed to have undue weight in the minds of Englishmen." This remark was made on the 2d of March, and we have files several days later, which enables us to judge of English feeling in the matter, so far as it is displayed in the public press.

The London Times treats the session with that grave and self satisfied philosophy which distinguishes the Times when no other course is possible. Nothing can be finer than when, after saying that the United States have made a "poor bargain" in the transaction, the Times adds "But, with all shutting our eyes to the possible consequences of this unexpected transaction, let England forbear to fasten upon it a hostile construction, or to insist upon rights and interests which are incapable of being maintained." That is unquestionably the real point. Why make a tremendous ado about what cannot be helped? Why indulge in threats which England confesses herself incapable of executing? She is not so ready to fight as to prevent our annexation of the Russian possessions, and consequently, says the Times, without shutting our eyes, let us forbear. There is no doubt in our mind that this expresses the real English feeling and view of the whole matter.

The strict party organs such as the Tory Herald and Post, and the Liberal Star and Voice, take views as violently opposed to each other, as they are both different from the views of the Times. The Post regards the treaty as an insult to England, as an act of hostility, a challenge, etc., and other Tory organs give varied expression to their anger and disgust. On the other hand the Daily News is pleased with the cession because it is so completely in the natural order of events? because "it will thwart no plans except the artificial combinations with which impotent, short-sighted politicians seek to counteract nature and history."

The Southern Vote

The New York World is not at all sanguine about the result of the elections in the South under the new regime It does not think that Democratic success is by any means certain Awhile ago it was confident its party would sweep every thing but it is now becoming apparent that they will have much difficulty in securing the vote of the lately enfranchised blacks There is now every indication that these people will vote almost unitedly for the Union Republican party Their Conventions without an exception have declared for that party, and the efforts of the World's friends to secure an opposite expression have been uniformly unsuccessful. This state of facts causes the World to have recourse to its arithmetic to figure on probabilities It estimates the number of white voters in the ten disorganized States at 661,974, and the number of colored voters at 412 187 It concedes that the white vote will be divided,—remarking that it is "impossible to forstall how many of the qualified white electors will adhere to the views of the Northern Radicals" This is not a flattering prospect for its party at the South, and the World confesses that the "uncertainty of the results of the several elections is extremely great" It remarks that there is deep anxiety in its party to see what the result will be,—evidently realizing that if the South is now lost, the Democratic party is also lost beyond hope of redemption. The World can derive no encouragement from its figures Its solicitude on the subject explains the cajolery its friends have been employing with the negroes to obtain their suffrages. It is a matter on which the very existence of the party depends

The Effect of the Pacific Railroad.

An Eastern paper publishes an article under this caption, from which we extract two or three paragraphs

Have any of us sufficiently considered the effect of the completion of the great highway which is to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans? How the great iron link is the course of commerce round the world along the line thermal temperate zone is to affect the future weal of the country? Perhaps one of the most fascinating conjectures of commercial speculative is to fancy the immense trade in teas silks, spices, and rich fabrics which now finds its way tediously around Cape Horn or the Cape of Good Hope, brought to our continental entrepot, and whirled by the power of steam rapidly across the continent there to be re-shipped again to Europe The frugal and industrious five hundred millions of Eastern Asia have many products which the expert two hundred millions of Europe need, and vice versa The shortest route between these two opposite sides of the earth lies right across our country; and from recent calculations there is scarcely able limit to the interchange of commodities between those mighty populations India and China afford a vast market for our precious metals, while we can take in return their tea, rice and fabrics, the product of cheap labor We can do the carrying trade for half the other continent and support a vast one of our own Evidently, future expansion lies large y in this direction.

Great as are these possibilities, and flattering as are these prospects, they form in reality only half—the least half—of the current which must pass and repass along this great artery of our internal circulation. Nothing in the future seems more certain than that the three great cities of this continent are to be New York, San Francisco and a central city in the Mississippi Valley, but whether Chicago or St Louis does not yet appear The completion of our system of railroads shows that they create their own traffic as fast as they can accommodate it—pouring a vivifying and fertilizing stream of capital and population wherever they traverse We no longer build roads between centres of population exclusively; they provide for the new support in the ultimate development of the country they drain In no case is this more conspicuous than in the Great Pacific railway In half a century the progressive spirit of our people has occupied a territory larger than a European empire. By the completion of the great national highway we shall have opened up a third of the country equal in natural bounty and permanent wealth to the rest

After alluding to the persistent energy with which the California end of the road is being pushed forward over the great obstacles which lie in the way, the article continues

What, then is the secret of this marvellous activity on the part of the Californians? First, the infallible profits to accrue from the road itself as a permanent investment. Second, the increased value it will add to every mine and every acre in the immense tract which shall feel its influence Third the great impetus it will give to mining interests by lessening the cost of extracting and reducing the precious ores one half, while the saving in time and labor will reduce the working power two fold. In a word, the Pacific Railroad is to quadruple the productive capacity of the territories, while it doubles the value of the land and improvements, and renders civilized settlements practicable.

The net earnings of the California road for 1866, short as the part actually in operation is, were astonishingly large. The length of road in operation was less than one hundred miles, yet the net earnings amounted to $650,000 in gold, or more than enough to meet the annual interest when almost double the number of miles shall have been built and equipped This is a most favorable showing for that part of the road. By the ensuing autumn the gap will be reduced to less than one thousand miles This gigantic work is progressing with such rapidity that it requires close attention for the observer to keep at even pace with its rate of progress.

At the peace of 1763, the territorial area of the United States was 820,680 square miles By the purchase of Louisiana was got 899,579 square miles, by the acquisition of Florida, 66,900; by the annexation of Texas 318,000; by the Oregon treaty, 308,052 and 550,455 by the Mexican treaties The Commissioner of the General Land Office in 1860 estimated the land area of the States and the Territories at 2,943,257 square miles, or, including the Indian Territory, 3,010,277 square miles The area of the Russian Possessions in America is computed at 481,276 square miles The annexation of Russian America will swell the grand total of square miles embraced within the United States to 3,491,553. In a little more than eighty years the original dimensions of the republic will have thus expanded to an almost fourfold degree. The territorial growth of the United States has been no less surprising than the growth of the population.

The following most excellent Democratic doctrine is from the New York Day Book. It reflects the sentiments of that party in Oregon

The Abolitionist the soul and disgusting wretch who believes in Mongrelism, and fancies that by equalizing those whom God has made unequal will be a grand and beneficent "reform" of human society, is certainly as hopelessly and readily lunatic as may well be imagined; but the "Colonization" who assents to his work, or accepts the so-called "abolition of slavery" will be regarded by the next generation as an infinitely viler creature for white equally responsible for the ruin of social order he cannot plead the excuse of madness Human society, of course cannot exist on a basis of legal equality among unequal beings, an obvious and indeed self-evident truth and moreover, demonstrated all about us and everywhere on this Continent If it could, why, negroes would increase instead of die in Massachusetts and white men would multiply in Jamaica, and Old Abe Lincoln would be more potent than God Almighty and the dead of Andersonville might be brought to life again by an act of the rump Congress But the order of nature cannot be reversed or the work of God reformed; the distinction of race cannot be abolished; the inferior negro cannot be equal with the superior white man, or the rump Congress raise the dead of Andersonville; all that is possible is the destruction of society in the South and Mr Johnson becomes the instrument of the Abolition madmen to commit this unutterable and filthiable crime against American civilization

Mr. Sumner, a few weeks ago, made a motion to expel Mr Saulsbury from the Senate A correspondent tells how this movement was received by its miserable subject

During the Executive session Saulsbury, who had become very drunk, came over towards Sumner, and assumed a threatening attitude, gesticulating and announcing his intention of having satisfaction out of Sumner for introducing the resolution for his expulsion The Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms promptly interfered, and with the assistance of one of the Senators, got him into the coat room, where, after divesting himself of his clothing, he lay down upon the floor and remained until the close of the session, when the Doorkeeper took him home

The Kansas Indians are soon to be removed from that State to the territory south Some of the Indians who are located as farmers will be permitted to remain, but the great body of them will be removed to the Indian Territory

There is to be a baby show at the Paris Exhibition, to which the infants and children under three years old, of any women employed in the building, will have a right of admittance

There are about 500 female telegraph operators now employed in this country.

Important Indian News from Montana Territory

The Helena Herald of May 2d comes to us filled with exciting rumors of imminent danger from the Sioux and other hostile tribes on the plains Much of what the Herald says has the appearance of being quite sensational, but we extract the following, which seems to have some foundation

Our fellow citizen, Hon N P Langford who has been absent at Virginia for the last ten days reached Helena on his return last evening having ridden his horse through from the capital in about thirty six hours He comes in of course ahead of the mails and brings us a most startling intelligence of the latest movements of the hostile tribes Dispatches reached Virginia just before he started announcing that Gen Hancock with his force of 3,000 efficient troops who had drifted off southward to the border of Colorado and New Mexico in search of peace Indians to make treaties with are now surrounded and cooped up at Fort Larned minus forage for his horses and it might be added, paper collars and rose hair oil with which to prepare for as well as the privilege of holding his usual dress parades

Another telegram states upon good authority that there are 11 000 (eleven thousand) Indians on the war path between forts Phil Kearney and C F Smith—less than 300 miles from Helena or Virginia City Taking this news, together with the report of Mr Frost just in from the Yellowstone and Fort Smith region which we have already given in another place we are forced to the conclusion that the settlements of this Territory east of the great divide have no time to lose in preparing for the worst emergencies The blundering strategem or plan (if any they have) of the military campaign, must in our opinion unless some radical change is made soon inevitably drive, force and actually hurl the great body of the savages in upon our settlements, and that, too before many weeks are passed

As stated in our last issue, the people of this Territory are beyond the reach of any available military force to repel the invasions that may at least occur within the next sixty or ninety days, and we must rely solely upon our own hands and our own resources for defence Major Clinton commanding seven or eight hundred idle men at Camp Cook a point apparently selected for its total seclusion and isolation from all the rest of the world, turns his brainless head and callous heart from our appeals and says he has not the will If he had the privilege to extend any assistance to our beleaguered settlements If we are not mistaken the people of Montana will note out to such a being who presumes upon his misplaced title and rank to offer them so base an insult that execration he so richly merits Just such men, vested with a little brief authority, are the bane and curse of all our western country

We are informed by one who knows that Fort Larned, where Hancock and his men are cooped is situated on the Pawnee fork of Arkansas river half way between forts Riley and Lyon, on the main road from the Missouri line to Santa Fe It is in the midst of the buffalo hunting ground of the Arrapahoes, Camanches, Kiowas and Cheyennes

Mr Frost, a gentleman well known as a former resident of Helena, who has been spending nearly a year on the sources of the Yellowstone and at Emigrant Gulch, besides being familiar with the doings of whites and Indians in all that part of the country, arrived in this city yesterday and gives utterance to the startling report that the Sioux Indians have not only planned to attack and devastate the Gallatin settlements, but that they are so powerful in their new alliances with the mountain tribes that they assert that they will penetrate to the very metropolis, and to the capital of the Territory, and sack and burn both Virginia and Helena cities Those things the Sioux have told to the friendly mountain Crows, whom they were trying to get to join them, and who told the whites of Emigrant Gulch, on the Yellowstone All these rumors are blurs well worthy of being borne in mind. The utmost precaution and vigilance should be practiced at all of our eastern outposts, such as the Muscleshell mining camp, Diamond City, and surroundings, the Gallatin settlements, etc, for no man can know to what extent the savages will carry their war this season Their late victories will spur them on to terrible extremes

The State of Business—Warnings for the Future

The cry of hard times comes from the marts of trade in the "West" the same as from the cities of the East The Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis papers tell the same story. From the Chicago Tribune, one of the most reliable business journals west of New York, we extract the following on these subjects

The attempt of those who have embarked in all manner of speculative enterprises to realize their investments and hold the same in cash, is but a prudent measure to avert the crushing effects of the storm should one come There is no unhealthy condition of things prevailing from all this The annual strife between landlords and tenants has an extraordinary intensity in all parts of the country this season Capital trembles as it looks into the future Labor is demanding an increase of wages in the face of the impending panic and prostration Never was there a time when the men of large means should so hesitate and weigh well the probabilities of the future before embarking in new enterprises, and never was there a time when those who live upon their earnings, be they great or small, should so retrench their expenditures in every possible means to be able better to meet the impending difficulty It may be that the country will escape a season of financial disruption and disaster, but it may not escape it Those who are hesitating to embark with their capital in real estate and improvements, may well consider whether they are likely to obtain any compensating return upon that investment during a season of financial disaster, and a consequent return to actual values.

To the same purpose are the warnings of the Chicago Times That paper differs from the Tribune on almost all questions of industry and finance, yet the two are agreed on this particular subject From an article in the Times we extract the following

Business continues very much depressed, with no immediate prospect of relief notwithstanding it was hoped that the opening of Spring would bring the farmers into the city in large numbers It is now feared however that the farming population are contenting themselves with their purchases made during last Fall and Winter, and are practicing economy to a greater extent than for a number of years back In fine, a distrust of the future on the part of all, from the largest capitalist to the small real estate holder, appears to be the main feature of financial and commercial affairs No prudent man appears inclined to enter into new engagements The merchant only buys for immediate consumption The manufacturer works his establishment in the most economical manner The prudent banker contracts his loans and discounts.

The Eloquence of Silent Prayer—An allusion is made to something that never occurred to us before, in the following—the strange, peculiar and impressive eloquence of the prayers of the deaf and dumb Says one of our Atlantic exchanges

A visitor to the Hartford Deaf and Dumb Asylum describes the religious exercises as wonderfully solemn and impressive. The chaplain closes his eyes—for the deaf children must see him in order to join with him Every eye is intently fixed on him, as he slowly, and with reverent gestures, addresses the Creator in the voiceless language of the dumb Not a sound is heard, not an eye wanders, every pupil seems to be transfixed and to join with all his heart and all his powers in that silent morning prayer It is the most devout in external form of any service that was ever witnessed

As Mr Horace Greeley periodically comes before the public in a somewhat prominent manner, and as he is now again creating a sensation it may not be amiss to quote what he wrote in favor of secession in December, 1860

Whenever a portion of this Union large enough to form an independent self-sustaining nation, shall see fit to say authentically to the residue, We will get away from you" we shall say, and we trust self respect if not regard for the principles of self government will constrain the residue of the American people to say Go

Colonization—Thurlow Weed signalizes his return, in old age to editorial life, by advocating the setting apart the State of Texas for the exclusive occupancy of the blacks, and let them there enjoy by themselves all the personal and political rights accorded elsewhere to the whites If this recommendation had come a quarter of a century earlier, there would have been some sense in it Now it is altogether out of season

Monument to the Memory of McPherson—The Legislature of Ohio has passed a resolution appropriating $5 000 toward building a monument in honor of the memory of Gen McPherson, who was killed in front of Atlanta

In a tract distributed by Mormon preachers the following question and answer occur "What shall be the reward of those who have forsaken their wives for righteousness sake A hundred fold wives here and wives hereafter

Two droves of cattle from Umpqua for the Washoe market says the Sentinel passed through the valley on Wednesday last One contained about 250 head mostly beef cattle the other about 150 head was fat cows The drovers report Umpqua Valley as being rapidly drained of cattle and the price raising

The Eugene paper says that a meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon Central Military Road Company was held at that place on the 24th inst Messrs B J Pengra T D Flaherty J G Gray H F Stratton Wm H Odell Dr J R Bayley and Dr J A Chapman were elected directors B J Pengra was elected president of the board Dr J R Bayley vice-president; J B Underwood secretary, I W Adams treasurer and Wm H Pengra superintendent We learn that the company now have fifty men at work on the road and they are pushing the work ahead and we may look for the road to be completed to the Des Chutes by September

Pay of Army Officers—The Washington Intelligencer correcting an erroneous statement in regard to the pay of army officers gives the following as the figures, after deducting the income tax

A General receives	$16 405 10
A Lieutenant General	12 919 10
A Major-General	7 959 56
A Brigadier-General	5 613 50
A Colonel	3 068 20
A Lieutenant-Colonel	2 734 70
A Major	2 403 15
A Captain (cavalry)	1 909 15
A Captain (foot)	1 738 15
A First Lieutenant (cavalry)	1,538 93
A First Lieutenant (foot)	1 527 15
A Second Lieutenant (cavalry)	1 538 93
A Second Lieutenant (foot)	1 409 90

This includes the additional pay voted by the Thirty ninth Congress, which lasts for two years from July 1 1866

For every five years' service as an officer in any grade, an addition of $105 50 per annum is made Officers who are not on duty with troops, or who are not furnished with quarters in kind receive in lieu of them a certain sum per month which varies in different localities The amount is based upon the rate of rent and the price of fuel

About one-seventh of the officers of the army by the nature of their duties receive the latter allowance, and in a large majority of cases, it is found to be not an equivalent to the quarters and fuel furnished by Government

No. 416 Montgomery St. act,

(Successors to Kellogg, Hewston & Company)

CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000!

Directors:

JOHN PARROTT CHAS E McLANE,
WM C RALSTON, A. HAYWARD,
LOUIS A. CARNETT.

LOUIS A CARNETT ... President and Manager
JOHN HEWSTON Jr Chemist and Superintendent

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and assures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the mining and commercial value of bullion

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS

One eighth of one per cent (heretofore a quarter) for all amounts over $1 000 and two dollars for any smaller sum Returns made in twenty-four hours

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one-eighth of one per cent for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent on the silver contained Returns made in twenty four hours

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS

On bullion under 900 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce
On bullion from 900@900 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce
On bullion from 900@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce
On bullion from 750@940½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce
Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars

FOR COINING GOLD

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent—and which is paid by us to that institution But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY EIGHT HOURS

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate as customary at the Mint

Gold bars of called Assayers in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co s Express

CHARGES AT U S BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold 3 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 300@600 parts gold 5 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 600@750 parts gold 7 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 750@850 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 850@949½ parts gold 14 cents per ounce
The charge for coinage is half of one per cent and the charge for making fine silver bars the same

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent—they must be sold at the following gross rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage

850 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents

845 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

865 par to equal San Francisco A & R Works return at refining charge of 8 cents mh24d3p3m

OREGON CITY ITEMS —The following items are from the Enterprise of the 25th On Monday last, at a meeting held in this city at the M E Church association de above named (Clackamas County Bible Association) was organized with the following officers J Myers, Presi dent; Wm Barlow, Vice President J M Bacon Secretary, A D Francis, Treasurer Executive Committee —L L Kelly, C F Lacy J Milne, J May, E D Kelly together with the Secretary and Treasurer A portion of the machinery of the Oregon City Woolen Factory has been stopped in consequence of the dearth in trade The Company has a large stock of cloths etc., on hand however, which will be sold at market rates—but in re ality, are 30 per cent better goods than any brought from abroad On Thursday the 16th inst, Mr C Stafford, who has for some considerable length of time been at work for Messrs Shattuck & Miller, at shoemaking in this city, disappeared from his room at an early hour, and has not since been seen or heard of by his employers No cause is known for the sudden departure unless it be that Mr Blackford was laboring under a temporary fit of insanity On Monday evening last Mr Abel Mattoon of this city, met with a serious accident, having had both bones of his left arm broken by falling from a tree We are pleased to learn from Dr Barclay, however, who attended the patient, that he is doing well The Clackamas Base Ball Club are doing some very fine scoring of late They meet frequently, at the call of the Secretary, for field exercise On the evening of the 18th, under the leadership of Capts Shepherd and Haddell, six innings were played each nine having 48 runs. On the following evening, with Capts Johnson and Capt Bridges, seven innings were played with a tie of 40 runs The new field on the bluff is in perfect trim, and is withal, a fine resort for the "boys" They have at their own expense, made valuable improvements upon the block in use, which belongs to the city, and as there is yet more to do, we consider that an appropriation from the city treasury would be right and proper at this time to assist the work At the regular meeting of the Clackamas B B Club, May 21st, 1867 A J Apperson was elected Umpire for the season The Club meet for field exercise every Thursday Friday and Saturday, at 4 o clock, P M A general invitation is extended to all to participate We are pleased to state that Misses Josie DeVore and Flora Olney have opened a select school at the Baptist Church in this city Both ladies are competent teachers Miss DeVore has a grade ate of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary, and comes highly recommended by Prof Gatch... Mr J H Schram, Saddler and Harness Maker, of this city, lately completed ten pairs of reins from one hide the longest of which measured twelve feet and six inches, the last one being eight feet in length The leather is fine, no cuts or bad pieces appearing in the lines as made The hide was taken at the Milwaukie tannery, but we are unable to say where or by whom the ox or cow was killed

THAT BREAK IN FRONT STREET —The ugly chasm in Front street near the old penitentiary, still yawns as wide as four months ago, and the people who are unfortunate enough to live on the south side of it, are still obliged to pay tribute for going around it on the bridge belonging to the Macadamized Road Co It is a disgrace to the city that in prime April street should thus remain impassable for key months. The City Council once did take a very slight system on account of this breach, but upon receiving the assurance of two or three people who would be benefited if repairs were made, it surrendered the matter in a spirit so graceful and meek as to excite universal admiration on the part of all beholders If the owners of the property had a way of pushing recalcitrant property holders into an improvement, then the city ought to either undertake the job itself or make an arrangement with the Road Co. for the free passage of teams across their bridge The people tell every day on a public street is becoming an eyesore not upon the residents of that part of the town and they very justly complain of it.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—No movement has yet been made to call a celebration of next Independence Day, to be held in this city at the M E Church association de above named (Clackamas County Bible Association) was organized with the following officers J Myers, Presi dent; Wm Barlow, Vice President J M Bacon Secretary, A D Francis, Treasurer Executive Committee —L L Kelly, C F Lacy J Milne, J May, E D Kelly together with the Secretary and Treasurer A portion of the machinery of the Oregon City Woolen Factory has been stopped in consequence of the dearth in trade The Company has a large stock of cloths etc., on hand however, which will be sold at market rates—but in re ality, are 30 per cent better goods than any brought from abroad On Thursday the 16th inst, Mr C Stafford, who has for some considerable length of time been at work for Messrs Shattuck & Miller, at shoemaking in this city, disappeared from his room at an early hour, and has not since been seen or heard of by his employers No cause is known for the sudden departure unless it be that Mr Blackford was laboring under a temporary fit of insanity On Monday evening last Mr Abel Mattoon of this city, met with a serious accident, having had both bones of his left arm broken by falling from a tree We are pleased to learn from Dr Barclay, however, who attended the patient, that he is doing well The Clackamas Base Ball Club are doing some very fine scoring of late. THE "TWO NINE."—Our Vancouver friends may just as well come down and not wait for our Pioneers' First Nine to shoot. We think our second nine is about as near as the average of base ball clubs in this country, and a little game last evening between them and the latter boys, the former made sixteen runs and the latter forty-seven We don't propose to lay it that bad over the boys, because courtesy would forbid that, but only to seventeen

THE "TWO NINE."—Our Vancouver friends may just as well come down and not wait for our Pioneers' First Nine to shoot. We think our second nine is about as near as the average of base ball clubs in this country, and a little game last evening between them and the latter boys, the former made sixteen runs and the latter forty-seven We don't propose to lay it that bad over the boys, because courtesy would forbid that, but only to seventeen

RUNAWAY.—The report that a gang of thirteen men left Portland on Thursday, for the purpose of cutting a railroad line is probably a mistake, but we will bet a new hat that before this day one year we can ride to Portland in a rail track —Enterprise

We'll take that bet, Bro Ireland, and bet you another hat that if you do not come to Portland till you come on a railroad, you will be so gray headed that your most intimate friends won't know you.

RUNAWAY.—A horse attached to a buggy and driven by Mrs Davis who lives out near the Canyon, yesterday, ran away at the end of Main street, breaking the buggy top and injuring Mrs Davis, though not seriously. Messrs Gale and Work, who fortunately were near, stopped the horse, repaired the buggy and drove the lady safely home Great presence of mind exerted a more serious disaster which might have occurred if the horse had succeeded in getting past them

The Oregon Mail Service

The following paragraph in relation to the mail service between Oregon and California is from the Jacksonville Sentinel

The Post Office Department advertises for proposals to carry the mails between Lincoln Cal, and Portland Oregon Proposals will be received until August 3d and an invitation is given to bid in the service at Oroville the terminus of the railroad, with a proportionately shortened schedule of arrivals and departures Also for a schedule from Lincoln, of six or seven days Proposals may also be submitted for six times a week service from Lincoln to Shasta three times a week from Shasta to Eugene City and six times a week from Eugene City to Portland—the bidders to propose the schedule themselves It is optional with the Department to accept a bid for the performance of the service the whole distance from Lincoln to Portland (624 miles) and bids daily or to accept the latter service—tri weekly between Shasta and Eugene and six times a week between these places as I understand it is the opinion of General Bidwell, of California that the latter service is all that will be vouchsafed to the people between Shasta and Eugene City, and if our people feel interested in the matter of a daily mail as at present would be the result of a petition at once, protesting against any change in the service Such a petition would receive the name of almost every person south of Eugene and north of Shasta and would undoubtedly have the desired effect If no one feels interested then we will just get such mail facilities as the Department chooses to grant us

Consumption like the Rattle Snake, always gives warning of its approach. A hacking cough, dull pain in the chest, difficulty of breathing, are the indications that there is more serious irritation of the lungs If this be neglected and go on until pustules are formed followed by tubercles, which sometimes eat off the blood vessels, death will be the result Dr. Wm's Lung Balsam will heal the irritated parts, allay the inflammation, removing the phlegm and matter, thus stopping the cough, and preventing fatal consumption. PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER, after a thorough trial, by innumerable living witnesses, has proved itself the Most Famous of the Age. Although there have been many medicinal preparations brought before the public since the first introduction of Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer, and large amounts expended in their introduction, the Pain Killer has continued to steadily advance in the estimation of the world as the best Family Medicine ever introduced It is an internal and external remedy. One positive proof of its efficacy is, that the sales have constantly increased and wholly upon its own merits. The effect of the Pain Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in case of Cold, Cough, Bowel Complaints, Cholera Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores, Sprains, Cuts, Sting of Insects, and other causes of suffering has secured for it such a host of testimony, as an almost infallible remedy, that it will be handed down to posterity as one of the greatest medical discoveries of the nineteenth century.

The Loved not Lost.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

How strange it seems with so much gone
Of life and love, to still live on!
Ah, brother, only I and thou
Are left of all that circle now—
The dear home faces whereupon
That fitful firelight paled and shone.
Henceforward, hasten as we will,
The voices of that hearth are still;
Look where we may the wide earth o'er
Those lighted faces shine no more.
We tread the paths their feet have worn,
We sit beneath their orchard trees,
We hear like them the hum of bees
And rustle of the bladed corn;
We turn the pages that they read,
Their written words we linger o'er
But in the sun they cast no shade,
No voice is heard, no sign is made,
No step is on the conscious floor!
Yet love will dream, and faith will trust,
Since he who knows our need is just,
That somehow, somewhere, meet we must.
Alas for him who never sees
The stars shine through his cypress trees!
Who, hopeless, lays his head away,
Nor looks to see the breaking day
Across the mournful marbles play!
Who hath not learned in hours of faith,
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That Life is ever Lord of Death,
And love can never lose its own!

General Rosecrans.

[From the New York Tribune.]

The distinguished officer who has recently resigned his rank as Brigadier General in the regular army will, perhaps, be referred to in after time as a conspicuous witness, if not of the ingratitude of republics, at least of the fact that war, like all other professions, is a good deal of a lottery in which it is not always the deserving who win the substantial rewards. Victor in the first important engagement which resulted favorably to the Union arms in the war of the rebellion; hero of several great battles, never decidedly beaten in any engagagement, frank and resolute in his patriotism, and idolized by a hundred thousand veterans who fought under him, General Rosecrans, by a strange combination of circumstances, has never been in favor with his official superiors, and never obtained even from the people, a fair recognition of his eminent services. "There are two things," said Abraham Lincoln in 1864, "for which I can never be grateful enough to General Rosecrans; one is the battle of Stone River, which accompanied my proclamation of emancipation, and was the beginning of our permanent success; and the other is his letter to the Indiana Legislature about the same time, throwing all the weight of his name and fame against the Copperheads." We hope he may receive this gratitude at some future day; he certainly has not had it yet.

It was less than sixty days after the attack upon Fort Sumter when he did us his grand service in Western Virginia by compelling the surrender of Pegram and Rich Mountain. The planning and the fighting were both exclusively his; the reward was given to McClellan. After the Great Delayer had been transferred to the Potomac, Rosecrans fought the battle of Davnifex Ferry, drove Wise, Floyd and Lee across the mountains, finished the campaign with brilliant rapidity, and when there was hardly a rebel picket left on this side of the Alleghany mountains, was relieved, for no fault of his own, that a Mountain Department might be created for General Fremont. He fought and won the battle of Iuka in September, 1862, while his superior officer, Gen. Grant, was lying inactive with his troops four miles from the scene of conflict, and although for this engagement he was made a Major General of volunteers, there sprang out of it a misunderstanding with General Grant which has had much to do with the marring of all Rosecrans' subsequent career. The next month, at Corinth, he beat Van Dorn and Price, with but little more than half as many men as his adversaries, gaining the most important victory of the war up to that time. Recalled from the pursuit, greatly against his own judgment, by Gen. Grant, he was relieved of his command nine days after the battle, and ordered to Cincinnati.

Two months after his appointment, October 30th, to the command of the Fourteenth Corps at Bowling Green, Kentucky, he had converted a demoralized rabble into a magnificent army, and led it across the Cumberland. The four days' battle of Stone River was won not more by the intrepidity of the soldiers than by the personal valor and skill of Rosecrans himself, and was a magnificent prelude to the brilliant campaign of the summer of 1863, by which he drove Bragg's army out of Middle Tennessee, and across the Tennessee River. The battle of Chickamauga in September was a bloody encounter, in which both sides were too badly crippled to continue the fray; but it secured us the possession of Chattanooga, the objective point of the campaign and the key of all the country south of the Cumberland Mountains. Nevertheless, Rosecrans was again relieved of his command, and for several months was allowed to remain in obscurity. Then he was sent to Missouri, where, besides doing efficient military service, he discovered the secret conspiracy of the Knights of the Golden Circle. Yet he was once more removed, and has never had command since.

Whether Gen. Rosecrans's unfortunate relations with the War Department and the Headquarters of the Army are to be traced to any fault of his own, we have no means of knowing. We only know that of all our generals he has uniformly been one of the most fortunate in the field and one of the most unfortunate everywhere else; and that his retirement ought to awaken in us a double regret that we have lost the services of an accomplished officer, and have rewarded so inadequately what he has done for us hitherto.

Personal Appearance of Chief Justice Marshall

In the winter of 1822-'23, I passed some months at Washington on professional business. I carried a letter of introduction to Chief Justice Marshall, and his reception of me was kind and cordial. He said—and so said that he made me believe that he should always be glad to see me, [illegible] as I could, taking care only not to [illegible] his hours of occupation. He was [illegible] even to meagerness, moved slowly, and [illegible] stooped a little. His dress and [illegible] appearance and demeanor, [illegible] far removed from the idolized graces of [illegible] as any gentleman on earth." If by this is meant factitious and insincere graces, it is true. But John Randolph's judgment seems to me much the better. He is said to have declared that "the manner of Marshall is perfect good breeding." To me his manner seemed indeed perfect. It was full of refinement and courtesy. But it was the refinement which sprang from and indicated the absence of everything like vulgarity of taste, feeling or thought; and his courtesy was the natural expression—equally unrestrained and unaffected—of his gentleness and benevolence. He wore upon his face a perpetual smile; but it was the farthest possible thing from a simper. It was only the utterance, by expression, of the constant kindness of his heart. He was indeed always natural. Simplicity, and the entire absence of pretense or artifice, characterized not only his manner, but the whole man.

To his dress he was utterly inattentive. His garments were old and old fashioned, of coarser material than was then commonly worn, and hung loosely about him. No one could forget his coat, large enough for a man twice his size, with vast pockets in the skirts, in which he could stuff quantities of papers, with not unfrequently a law book in each. A story told of him illustrates his appearance. At the market in Richmond, a gentleman much better dressed than he was, misled by his appearance, offered him a shilling to take home a turkey he had bought. Marshall took the turkey, and followed the gentleman home, but declined the shilling. The story is probably not true, but it indicates the kind of man about whom such a story could be invented; and nothing is more possible than that he would do that very thing for the fun of it. It may seem strange to associate such a word as "fun" with Chief Justice Marshall. But although he could be, and was, as "grave as a judge" when gravity became him, no one enjoyed it more, no one contributed more to it in hours when that became him.

As a Judge his demeanor was marked by every element of excellence. He was patient, courteous, attentive to fact as well as to seeming, gentle to all, and most gentle to those whom any touch of severity would have pained or embarrassed. And yet there was about him a dignity wholly unassailable. As he never said anything that could provoke retort or give pain, so, I believe, there was never an instance of an attempt to be rude to him. Beneath all his courtesy there lay, as every one saw, a firmness and a sense of the duties and proprieties of his high place which would have made any such attempt very dangerous. When any counsel addressed the Court the Chief Justice turned his eye upon him and kept it there, and the fixed, unchanging and unswerving look of that calm gray eye (over which hung bushy eyebrows) arrested and suppressed many a flow of nothingness, and saved the time of the Court better than any limitation of hours or personal checks could have done.

A "Democratic United States Convention" was held in Cincinnati on Saturday, April 13th. Speeches were made by Hon. Alex. Long, who presided, Col. L. P. Milligan, Henry Clay Dean and others, all of the ancient order, advocating State sovereignty and the right of secession.

Two men fired at an eagle at the same time and killed him. An Irishman observed: "They might have saved their powder and shot; the fall would have killed him."

A Man Eats Nothing for Thirty-two Days.

[From the Dayton Journal April 2]

A good deal has been said about a case of voluntary starvation, as is alleged, now in progress here. The reports were that an old man by command of "the spirits," had refused to eat another mouthful of food, and had gradually wasted away until he had reached the verge of the grave. For the purpose of getting some insight into this case of voluntary starvation, we called yesterday at the residence of the starving man, Mr. B. M. Brown, on the southeast corner of Wilkinson and Water streets. The relation of the details of this remarkable case of abstinence from food was simple and affecting. We learned from the wife of Mr. Brown—a plain simple minded, and, to all appearances, a truthful woman—that on the 28th of February, her husband assisted her in carrying in a load of coal. He was taken with a chill soon afterward, and went to bed exhausted. That night he ate a little piece of toast soaked in tea, since which time, she averred he had not taken a particle of nourishment of any kind. Yesterday was the thirty second day of the continuance of this total abstinence from food. He has taken a little water two or three times a day Mr. Brown is eighty-four years old, and was quite fleshy when he ceased eating. He is now reduced to a mere skeleton. He is cheerful and says he is entirely happy and anxious for the change which he says must soon come. As to the report that he had set about starving himself at the command of "the spirits," he says is not true. The reason for his abstinence is simply a want of appetite. He declares that he has not, for more than thirty years, had an appetite for food—that he could not swallow it if nature craved such support.

Mr. Brown has lived in Dayton for about thirty years. He is a shoemaker, and has worked at his trade industriously during his residence here. He is a man of sobriety and intelligence, and has always been respected. Accepting as a fact the thirty-two days abstinence from food, we may account for his imagined freedom from pain by the occurrence of an hallucination, induced by his belief in the agency of guardian angels who administer to him, and by some spiritual essence protract his life. This he asserts, and thus affords evidence to "a mind diseased." Conversing on other topics he appears entirely rational and practical, and seems unwilling to have any one believe he is of unsound mind. He even changes the subject of conversation from his guardian angels and "spirit food," to common every day topics, for the purpose of impressing his visitors with a conviction of his sanity. We may add in conclusion that Mr. Brown refused from the first have a physician called. He said it was useless, for he could not take medicine. His time had come. A long life had already been passed. He longed for rest.

The case is a very remarkable one, and should be investigated by the medical men. The testimony in favor of this long abstinence appears to be reliable. The wife of Mr. B. disclaims most positively any connection with a scheme to deceive the people, by giving nourishment or stimulants in secret, and pretending that some supernatural power sustains her husband in his protracted fasting.

It seems to be incredible, as it certainly is contrary to the teachings of science and of experience as well, that this starvation process could go on without intense suffering. Yet Mr. Brown, according to his own declarations and those of his wife, has suffered no pain, but on the contrary has appeared happy and resigned to the fate which he knew was inevitable. It is scarcely fair to doubt his own word, and that of his wife, as to the fact of the abstinence for the period named. He said yesterday, when questioned on this point, "You can see that I am wasted to a skeleton, and that a few hours will close my time on earth. I would if, with eternity just before me, say what was deceptive and false just to make a sensation? No, I would not do that. I refused to eat because I had no desire for food—I have had no desire for it, nor have I taken any for thirty-two days. I have suffered no pain, but I have laid in my bed, happy in the prospect of enjoyment in the world to come. To-night, I hope and believe, will close my existence here."

THE FATE OF DR. LIVINGSTONE.—The Times of India of March 13th states that the intelligence received from Zanzibar now leaves no doubt of the death of Dr. Livingstone. The statement of an Arab, named Moosa, one of the heroic traveler's most trusty followers, who with a few others of the expedition, returned to the East African coast in December, confirms the news that their leader was murdered. It would appear that Dr. Livingstone had crossed Lake Nyassa about the middle of September last, and had advanced a few stages beyond its western shore, when he encountered a horde of savages of the Mafito tribe. He was marching, as usual, ahead of his party, having nine or ten personal attendants, principally boys from Nassick, immediately behind him. The savages are said to have let upon them without any provocation, and with very little warning. Dr. Livingstone's men fired, and before the smoke of their muskets had cleared away their leader had fallen beneath the stroke of a battle-axe, and his men speedily shared the same fate. Moosa, who witnessed the encounter and the death-blow of his master from behind a neighboring tree, immediately retreated, and, meeting the rest of the party, they fled into the deep forest, and eventually made their way back to LakeNyassa, whence they returned to the coast with a caravan. When the news of Dr. Livingstone's sad death reached Zanzibar, the English and other European Consuls lowered their flags, an example which was followed by all the ships in the harbor, as well as by the Sultan. It may be worth while to remark that Dr. Livingstone himself had a strong presentiment that he would never return from the expedition which has terminated thus disastrously; and this presentiment he frequently expressed to the officers of Her Majesty's ship Penguin, who were the last Europeans he saw before starting for the interior.

ZACH. MONTGOMERY.—In reference to a recently made speech in Oakland, (Cal.) by Montgomery, the News says.

For some three-quarters of an hour he confined himself to the legitimate discussion of the subject announced, when he called the workingmen's attention to a terrible burden they were compelled through radical legislation, to bear. He launched out against the holders of untaxable United States Bonds. While he was speaking, somebody in the crowd said something about secessionists, and there was a fine prospect of a first class row. Officer Summers was on hand promptly, and making his way into the crowd, quieted it down. He performed his duty in a very creditable manner; had he manifested less firmness the meeting would doubtless have been broken up. Zach endeavored to prove that each man in his audience paid forty cents on each pound of that necessary of life, tobacco, which he used, for the benefit of those cruel bondholders, which were urbered into existence by a Radical Congress. The audience was now becoming small. Somebody in the crowd sang out that the only Republican present was the junior Editor of this paper, which was a mistake, however. As long as Mr. Montgomery spoke about the Chinamen, he appeared to retain the attention of his audience, but when he coupled them with holding our Government securities, they could not "see the point." After he had concluded his harangue, Bill Hoskins passed round the hat; money was wanted to pay the man who had rung the dinner-bell, pay the rent of the "hall," and to pay for the lights (furnished by six tallow candles stuck in empty whiskey bottles). We presume that the requisite amount (?) was raised.

WHY GOV. SWANN DID NOT QUALIFY AS U. S. SENATOR.—The subjoined extract from the Baltimore American of the proceedings of the Maryland Republican Convention seems to explain why Gov. Swann resigned the position of U. S. Senator, after working as hard as he did to secure it:

During the absence of the committee, J. J. Stewart, Esq., was loudly called for, and, in eloquent remarks, indicated the importance and character of the true issues now pending before the loyal men of the nation, urging all to come up bravely to the support of the principle of equal rights to all men. Mr. Stewart referred to the apostacy of Governor Swann, pursuing his record since 1860 up until the present time, and demonstrating the palpable inconsistencies of his political career. In the course of his remarks Mr. Stewart startled his audience with the assertion that, among other matters that was troubling Gov. Swann, was that he had taken an oath to the Southern Confederacy in order to secure the payment of his Virginia bonds. His remarks were greeted throughout with enthusiastic applause.

"What rank injustice!" cried the orphans in the sum of 100,000—"such assurances of that mean little stroke to stand before us, as if we were mere nobodies—fine, handsome, well-made fellows as we are, and five times the number of us! "Let us push on and drive the little thing into its proper place, behind." They cried again: "You know he would be one—simply one—if it were not for us." "Take care what you do," said the Unit. "If your being behind gives me magnitude of value, know that it is my being before that gives you any value at all. While I am here (simple as I am), and you are there (fine fellows as you are), we stand for 100,000, but if you take the lead from me and step to the front, we shall not altogether count for more than an infinitesimal part of one!"

Sheriff's Sale.

BY virtue of a warrant issued out of the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Multnomah, to me directed, commanding me to levy upon the goods and chattels of the delinquent tax-payers named in the delinquent tax-roll, for the year 1866, thereto attached, and if none be found, then upon the real property as set forth and described in said tax list, or so much thereof as shall satisfy the amount of taxes so charged together with costs and expenses, I have this 4th day of May (for want of personal property) levied upon the following described pieces or parcels of land, as set forth in said tax list, lying and being in the city of Portland, Multnomah County, State of Oregon, known and described and assessed to the parties, as follows, to-wit:

CLOBE HOTEL,

Corner of North Front and C Streets,

PORTLAND, OREGON.

THE UNDERSIGNED WOULD RESPECTFULLY inform the citizens of Portland and the traveling community, that he is now ready to receive and entertain all who may favor him with a call, in a manner and at prices to suit the times.

"THE GLOBE" is a NEW HOUSE, just finished; the rooms are large, well ventilated, and elegantly furnished with carpets, &c., &c. The tables will always be supplied with the very best the market affords.

It will be the constant and earnest endeavor of the proprietor to so conduct the "GLOBE HOTEL" as to give entire satisfaction to his guests; he would therefore respectfully solicit the patronage of the public.

my4-1m PHILIP SCHAD,

VANCOUVER HOUSE,

Foot of Main Street, opposite the Steamboat Landing.

VANCOUVER, W. T.

THE undersigned begs leaves to inform the public that he has lately opened the above-named House, and is now ready to receive guests. His table will be well supplied and he has very superior accommodations for lodging. The House has been thoroughly renovated and enlarged, and being conveniently located near the several steamboat landings, commends itself particularly to the transient custom. The proprietor, by strict attention to the comfort of his patrons, hopes to receive a due share of the public patronage.

H. REINHARDT,
mh22dtm Proprietor.

Patents for Inventions.

Business with the United States Patent Office, such as filing Caveats, and procuring Letters Patent, will be prosecuted with strict care and attention. All business of this character will be strictly confidential.

General Land Office—Patents for Lands.

Will attend to procuring Patents for United States lands, located by Land Warrants or purchased with cash. All business connected with the General Land Office, such as collecting money for lands erroneously entered with cash, or return of the Land Warrants erroneously located; the settlement of cases under the Pre-emption Laws, and examining titles, will receive prompt attention.

Bounty Land Warrants.

Will procure Bounty Land Warrants (160 acres) for each of the surviving Officers, Chaplains, Soldiers, Seamen, Marines, Clerks, and Landsmen in the Navy—Wagon Masters and Teamsters, who served in any of the wars in which the United States has been engaged since 1790 to 1861. In case of the death of any of the above, the widow or minor children are entitled.

Bounty and Arrears of Pay.

Will procure arrears of Pay due Officers, and Bounty and arrears of Pay due Soldiers, Seamen and Marines. If any of the above have died, the amount due is payable to the Widow, Children, Father and Mother, and Brother and Sister, in their turn.

Pensions.

Will procure Pensions for Officers of the Army and Navy, Soldiers, Seamen and Marines, who have been disabled by wounds received, or who contracted a disease while in the line of duty; and if any of the above were killed in battle or have died from said causes, the following are entitled to them in their order, viz: Widow, Children (under 16 years of age), Father and Mother and Sisters, if dependent upon their deceased son or brother for support, either in whole or in part.

The Pension Laws apply to all wars in which the United States have been engaged.

All communications asking advice or information should enclose postage, or whenever of a character requiring it, should be accompanied with a reasonable fee.
